

Editorial and Local.

A dubious beginning in interest.

The water filling the basin around Dry Lake, Sattin, has been discovered to emanate from the New River section along the overflowed section of the Colorado. The flow is now moderate and no serious apprehension is felt of further damage.

"Harmless as well as brainless," is the caption the R-ton Range applies to the fellow at Clayton who was "pleased to know that a free and untrammeled newspaper was about to be established in Cerrillos." This paper has been a little too "free and untrammeled" to suit some people.

There is an echo in a small town which seems to convey directly to the ears of each person what other persons are saying, and some things which are not being said. The echo shall be nameless, but the moral is, "don't talk about your neighbor."

The Santa Fe city officers are: W. T. Thornton, mayor; J. D. Hughes, city clerk; Samuel Elliott, treasurer. Alderman: Frans Delgado, Richard Gorman, M. Garcia, M. Quintana, G. D. Koch, W. S. Harroun, Geo. W. Kraebel and M. Mondragon.

The Beacon is the name of a new weekly paper established at Cerrillos by G. E. Hosmer and under the management of W. B. Tipton. There is certainly not room for two papers and it will be a case of the "survival of the fittest!" That being so a "Rustler" should win.—Eddy Argus.

It is folly to invite farmers to this portion of New Mexico at the present time. Did they accept the invitation and come, they would have to go back disappointed, or remain to starve. At present and not for years will this be an agricultural country, and no dependent class of farmers can develop it to such; that requires government aid and costly experiments which will consume years.

Last Sunday night a party of about twenty men, who had got hold of the information that there was to be a raid on Don Eugenio Romero's pasture below town, went down and concealed themselves there waiting the White Cap raiders. Two of the raiders who were probably prospecting to see if all was clear, came along, and the parties concealed captured one and arrested the other in town Monday. Monday afternoon they had an examination before Judge Wooster and were bound in under $300 bonds to the district court. The parties names were Enrique Mares and Jose Chaves. It is reported that Mares has given away the whole business.—Las Vegas Free Press.

The statement of W. B. Tipton having said to the RUSTLER that the Beacon had a bonus of $250 or any amount to come here is wilfully and maliciously false and groundless.—Beacon.

One of our business men, Dick Mathews, stated in this office that on being asked to subscribe for the Beacon, he had remonstrated and questioned the wisdom of a second paper starting in Cerrillos at the present time. Tipton replied that $250 bonus had been put up for the paper, and that Hosmer would have been foolish not to come. As for the statement being malicious, that is nonsense. It is perfectly legitimate for a publisher to ask and receive a bonus for establishing a newspaper, especially in a small town, and such bonus is classed as a tribute to the reputation of the publisher. If the paper proves able, energetic and ever wide awake, the money thus contributed is well invested. If the paper is below the average, that or any other money contributed to its support had as well be thrown in the fire, for the appearance and life of any newspaper must be either a credit or detriment to the locality or cause it represents.
